

Foreign Military Developments

Alleged U-2 Flight Over North Korea

A Tass communique datelined P'yongyang, 22 December 1962, appearing in Krasnaya Zvezda on 23 December, claimed that "a US U-2 reconnaissance plane violated North Korean air space on 6 December 1962."

US and British Intervention Alleged

An article by Al. LEONT'YEV, V. POLYANSKIY, and V. POPOV, in the "International Military Review" of Krasnaya Zvezda, 16 November 1962, described military activities of "US and British interventionists" in South Vietnam, Yemen, and Africa, stating that "foreign colonialists in these countries are striving to suppress the national liberation movements," but that "colonialism is in its last stage of existence."

Polish Congress of Friends of Soldiers

The Fourth All-Polish Congress of the League of the Friends of Soldiers, held in Warsaw on 11 November 1962, was reported in Krasnaya Zvezda, 14 November 1962.

Czechoslovak Army Organizes Socialist Competition

An article in Krasnaya Zvezda, 14 November 1962, by Maj Frantisek Guta and Maj Miroslav Meyzlik of the Main Political Administration of the Czechoslovak Army, described the organization of socialist competitions in their army, following the example of the Soviet Army.

NATO Conference Criticized

An article by Lt Col A. KASHCHEYEV in Krasnaya Zvezda, 18 November 1962, severely criticized the views expressed at the NATO Conference in Paris in November 1962, particularly "the US willingness to place nuclear weapons at the disposal of European NATO members, thereby aggravating the international situation and increasing the danger of war."